What is a Clinical Review?

At EmpiRx Health, we work in close collaboration with your healthcare provider to ensure that your treatments prioritize your health, safety, and well-being. A Clinical Review is an important part of this process and is often referred to as a prior authorization.

A Clinical Review must be initiated by you, your pharmacist, or your prescriber by calling EmpiRx Health. During a Clinical Review, we may consult with your prescriber to discuss your treatment plan or explore alternatives that may be more beneficial for you. In many cases, EmpiRx Health will simply request additional information from your prescriber's office to confirm that your prescription aligns with the latest clinical guidelines for safe and effective use.

Our program will ensure that you receive timely updates on the status of your Clinical Review, enhancing your patient experience and supporting your health and well-being.

How it Works:

- 1 Want to receive notifications? If we don't already have your cell phone number, simply register it on the EmpiRx Health Member Portal at myempirxhealth.com or by scanning the QR code
- 2 Once registered, you'll begin receiving text alerts for any medications requiring a Clinical Review starting from the day your mobile number is provided.
